National Situation – September 9, 2011

Fire activity is occurring over the majority of the western states, with increasing activity in the Northern Rockies and the Northwest. Activity is expected to increase within the Great Basin and California Areas. Additionally, initial attack and large fire occurrence continues in the Southern Area, primarily in Texas and Oklahoma.

Support of ongoing incidents as well as initial attack is requiring a sustained level of national support with tactical resources such as crews, helicopters, air tankers and engines. Due to the current level of commitment, there are no available 20 person crews or mobile catering units available. This is expected to continue through the September time period.
